THE ROBLES DEL RIO bridge, looking upstream, near Carmel Valley Village. In spite of the major storm, no flood damage was reported. ....and the rains came, and came

In spite of nearly eight inches of rain recorded at San Clemente Dam over the weekend and to 8 a.m. Tuesday, no major problems were reported in Carmel Valley as a result of the season's biggest storm.

California - American Water Co. reported that water going over the spillways reach Monday night with 4.5 feet of water at Los Padres Dam and 4.16 feet over San Clemente Dam. It crested at 5.15 feet Tuesday at 10:15 a.m. over San Clemente Dam, which is about five miles above Carmel Valley Village.

Although water was running in Carmel River its full length to the ocean Sunday, no damage or flooding was reported.

At San Clemente Dam, 4.01 inches of rainfall fell between Saturday at 8 a.m. and Sunday at 8 a.m. The same 24 hours recorded 3.88 inches of rainfall at Los Padres Dam. From 8 a.m. Monday to 8 a.m. Tuesday another 3.06 inches of rain was recorded at Los Padres Dam and 2.18 inches at San Clemente Dam.

An "average number" of logs came down the river, according to a Water Co. spokesman, some of which had to be guided over the dams.

The County Road Dept. had a mobile crane among its equipment in the Valley, keeping logs from jamming against bridges and backing up water.

Most of the road dept's. crew of 14 working out of its Seaside yard were busy in Carmel Valley around the clock over the weekend, according to E. Andrews, foreman.

One slide on the Cachagua Rd. blocked traffic for several hours until cleared, and another was also cleared from Hoist Grade into Palo Colorado Canyon towards Big Sur.

"Lots of rocks came down on the road and there were plenty of culverts to keep clean," Andrews said.

CV Fire Chief Chip Collins reported that his men were alert for possible assistance, but only

THE CARMEL HIGH Humanities Class had an unusual experience, told graphically in a picture-story on pages 4 and 5. The student's response varied with each person. Here Jackie Smithson "reads" her partner with finger-touch sensations.

CARMEL RIVER comes booming around Porter's Pool in the Robles area, but produced no flood threat during this week's prolonged rain. Water topped both Los Padres and San Clemente Dams last week, filling the river bed to the ocean, where the sandbar at the mouth of the river was bulldozed clear early Sunday morning.

one call came in in connection with the storm. "That was from a woman who said there were two feet of water on Vista Del Rio in Robles, and we referred her to the Road Dept.," he said.

Rainfall at the CV fire station was less than at San Clemente Dam, according to Fire Chief Collins. On Saturday 1.10 inches fell, Sunday 2.31 inches and another .34 to Monday morning, for a total of 3.65 for the storm. His records indicate 10.53 inches so far this winter, compared to 5.43 at this time last year.

Water rose about 7 feet at Camp Steffanie, missing houses there, Chief Collins reported, compared to 12.5 feet during the 1958 flood which inunduated houses there.

A bulldozer went into action about midnight Saturday to clear the sandbar at the mouth of the Carmel River on the State Park property, and finished breaking through by 3 a.m. Sunday.

Cost of opening the mouth of Carmel River is split three ways, between the county, the Carmel Sanitary District and the State Division of Parks. A bulldozer hired from Granite Construction Co. did the job.

Supervisor Don Rich of Point Lobos State Park has the responsibility of making the decision when to order the opening of the river mouth.

The sand bar has to be opened when the flow of the river drops down and the tides go into action.

Last year, the river had to be opened only once, but in 1965 it had to be opened a total of 25 different times, six by bulldozer and 19 times by hand-digging.

He added that there may come a time of major trouble and flooding in the flood-plain of the river. This would be at a time of a combination of saturated earth, a heavy river flow and a sudden storm plus a high tide and an offshore wind, pushing the ocean in.

Thorkelson Stables OK'd by County Planning Commission

D.H. Thorkelson now has the go-ahead for a riding stables limited to 12 horses.

It is to be located about a mile and a half east of Carmel Valley Village, easterly of the Road and northerly of Camp Stephanie Road.

The county planning commission OK'd a use permit with certain limitations. They are:

Provide sanitation facilities for the public.

Construct a standard rural driveway connection with 25-ft. radius returns to the edge of existing pavement on Carmel Valley Road.

Two signs to be located off public right-of-way.

That the public stable use be limited to a maximum of 12 horses.

That the design of all agricultural use buildings be approved by the planning commission.

The commission decided that the sale of hay and grain is not an allowed use because it is not grown on the property.

Fred Payne, owner of the property directly across Carmel Valley Road, appeared and stated that he was concerned with how far back off Carmel Valley Road the sign would be placed. The position of the sign was clarified by the applicant to Mr. Payne's satisfaction.

The commission also ruled on other use-permit applications in the Carmel Valley area.

SUCCULENT FARM

An on-site sign was approved for Robert Walls for his Succulent Farm.

The business is located on the James Meadows Tract, fronting on and northerly of Carmel Valley Road, easterly of Los Arboles Road.

Conditions attached to the approval were as follows:

That the sign not be illuminated.

Remove existing sign from public right-of-way.

Sign to be removed from the Official Plan Line by the owner when the property is required for road purposes.

That the permit expire on January 9, 1974.

PANHANDLE LOT

Approval was also given to Marie Stott for the establishment of one panhandle lot on a portion of Lot 12 of Parcel 4, Loma Encantadora, fronting on and easterly of El Camito Road, northerly of Via Milpitas.

The other three parcels already comply with the zoning ordinance.

NEW USE PERMITS

The zoning administrator reported that three requests for hearings from Carmel Valley are set for the January 30 agenda. They are:

Martin Forster, two panhandle lots.

Lloyd Swanson, guest house.

Patricia Wester, ballet studio.

Indian Ridge Development Co., Los Laureles Grade, four subdivision signs.

Pam Martin's engagement told

The engagement of Pam Martin, Carmel, to Ted Davalos of Santa Fe, New Mexico, is of interest to her many valley friends.

The announcement was made this week by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. John F. Martin, prominent Peninsula family and members of early pioneer families of this area.

Miss Martin, a junior at the University of New Mexico at Albuquerque, New Mexico, attended Carmel High school where her brother Ros is a junior.

Mr. Davalos is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel P. Davalos of Santa Fe, New Mexico. He will receive his bachelors degree in architecture this June from the University of New Mexico and will attend graduate school in the fall.

Field off-limits to club planes

New regulations of the Monterey Flying Club prohibit their planes from landing on the Carmel Valley air strip.

Due to the deterioration of the field the decision was made, according to Ned Mayo, president. The restriction will be reconsidered when the surface is improved he said.

Small Stable on Los Laureles Grade OK'd by 3-2 vote

A proposed boarding stable and veterinary office on Los Laureles Grade near Hidden Hills provoked considerable controversy before the County Planning Commission last week.

It was approved by a 3-2 vote, but a final OK must await a decision by the County Board of Supervisors.

William C. Boggess of Carmel, who sought the permit, had the following restrictions attached by the commission:

Maximum of 10 horses can be boarded;

Horse rentals and riding lessons forbidden;

Only one access road from highway;

Screening through landscaping;

Veterinary practice restricted to large animals.

Commissioners expressed doubt on whether the 20-acre site is suitable for Laureles Grade.

Said Keith Evans of Carmel: "I feel that is the wrong place for it." He also warned of the possible entering wedge for other commercial uses along the winding 6-mile route, which offers scenic vistas of both the Carmel and Salinas Valleys, as well as the ocean. Morden Buck of Carmel Valley also had reservations about the development, although he did not oppose it when it was voted on.

Evans and Perry Henderson of Salinas cast the negative votes on the application.

A number of other stables in the Carmel Valley area are also underway.

Fletchers have visitors

Mrs. Dave Frevert, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. L.G. Fletcher of Carmel Valley manor, left for her home last week in West Des Moines, Iowa after a month's visit.

During her stay she was joined by her husband, and two sons, Ted and Tim who attend colleges in Iowa.

Mr. and Mrs. Fletcher had a re-union of children, grandchildren, and great grandchildren with many family festivities planned during the holidays.

Their son Mr. Robert Fletcher and wife of Portland, Ore., came to the valley with their sons, Robert and John and their families.

Also as recent visitors were the Ralph Fletchers of Whittier and their daughter and family, Mr. and Mrs. Glen Duke of that city.

Mr. Fletcher's sister, Mrs. Naomi Fletcher Caldwell also lives at the Carmel Valley Manor.

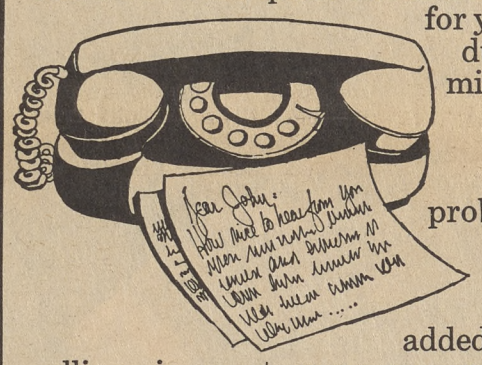
What's doing?

If you're one of those people who can't seem to get down to writing letters, you'll be glad to know that a three-minute long distance call will replace about a two-page letter for you! It's a fact: during a three-minute call you can say just about all the words you'd probably be writing—as many as 450 of them. An added advantage to calling: in most cases you get answers to your questions and the comments you're after without waiting for days. Plenty can be covered during such a telephone call, but it's helpful to jot down some notes on what you want to say before you call. When you keep in touch with friends and family by phone, you can get a lot more understood a lot quicker—for surprisingly little.



I would like to take this opportunity to extend a hearty "Welcome to the Crosby" on behalf of Pacific Telephone.

We on the Monterey Peninsula are fortunate to be able to host this outstanding event that brings the stars of the golf and entertainment worlds together for the benefit of charity.

For your convenience, Pacific Telephone is providing Message Center service during the Bing Crosby National Pro-Am Golf Tournament. Our centers will be available from 9:00 a.m. to 6:00 p.m., January 22 thru January 26.

The Centers will be located at the 1st Tee at Pebble Beach and at the 18th greens at the Cypress and Spyglass Courses.

We look forward to "Seeing you at the Crosby"!

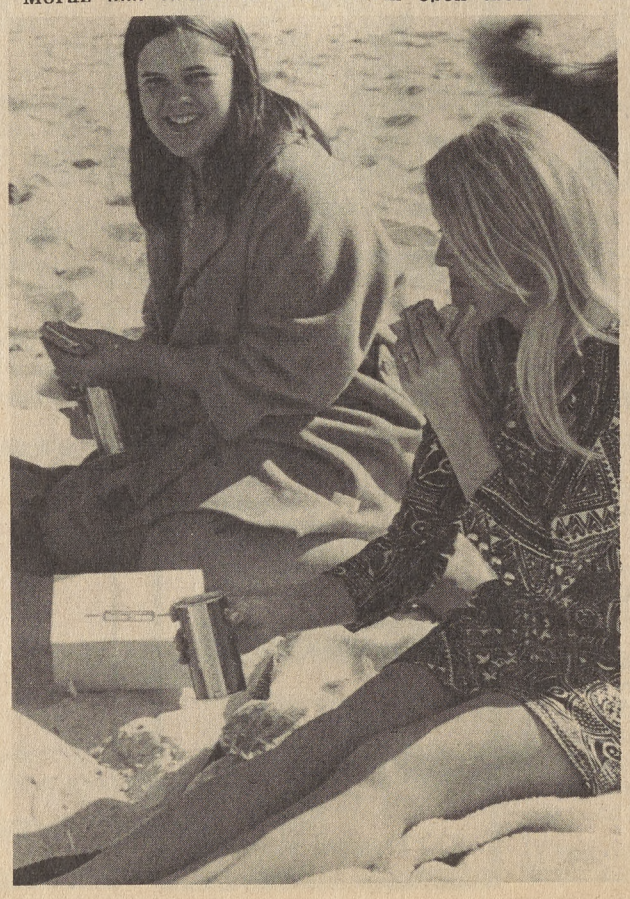
HUMANITIES CLASS, 15 pairs of students, leave Carmel High School campus for a two hour trip to Ocean Beach. One walks blind, the other leads. There are no verbal aids, only hand pressures. The trip is through downtown by any route.

DIFFERENT HOLDS are used to guide "blind" students. Here Jan Bell is guided by Alan Koontz.

Carmel High students relate in a new way to one another

BY THE TIME the group reached the beach the "blind" had learned to trust their guides. Above, John O'Neal is not afraid to run with Kris Swanson leading.

FOOD, the appetites encouraged by the long walk, would not wait for the regular lunch hour. Sue Moraz and Debby D'Arazi break open their food.



QUIET MOMENT, Berit Keeble contemplates sun, sand and flower, part of the training in the humanities course.

A "DEEP, WARM, BEAUTIFUL" EXPERIENCE

by Cathy McFann

To speak with your hands, to race down the beach, to trust, to share, to communicate. Is that school?

To the students of CHS's Humanities class, it can be.

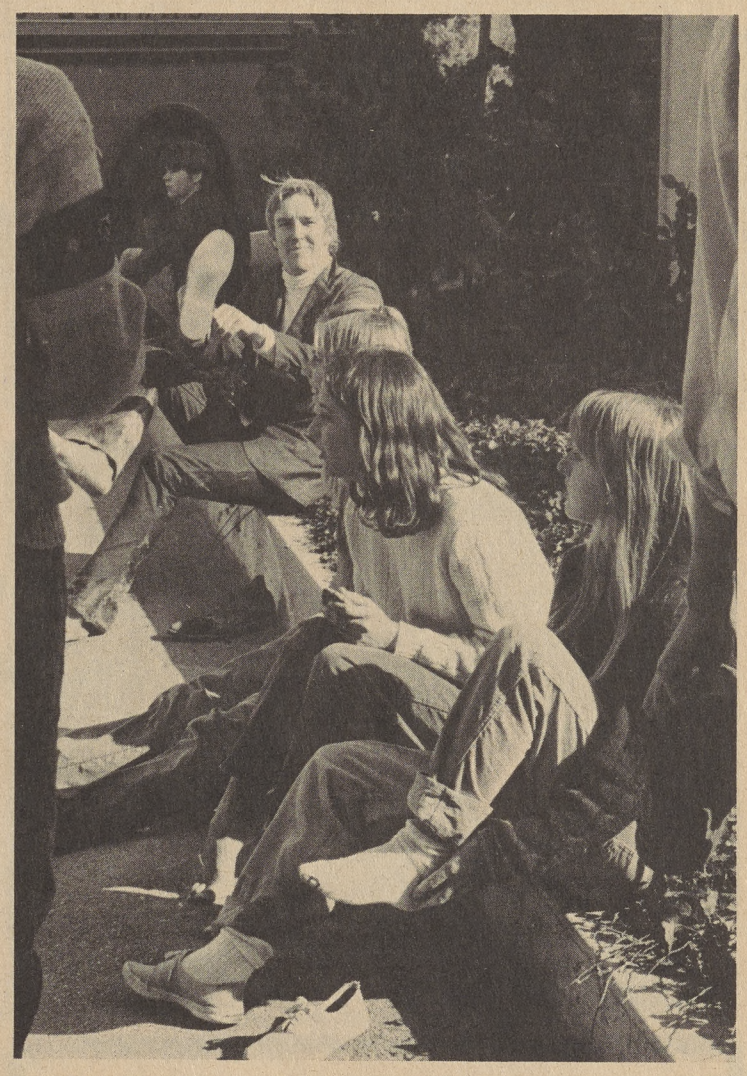
With the aid of two residents from the Esalen Institute, Jill Harris and her friend Peter, the class recently participated in an experience which class members have called "deep", "warm" and "beautiful".

Describing part of this experience, a "blind walk" in which one student acted as a guide to his "blind" partner as they trekked from the high school to Ocean Beach. Candice O'Jack said, "At first, I was terrified out of my mind."

"But half way down," she added, "it was really beautiful. I just wanted my partner to lead me on. After you trust someone for awhile you really trust them."

She continued, "Now I can relate to someone I never could before. It's a kind of communication people don't usually have."

THOUGHTFUL TEACHERS made sure every one would be back at campus on time by providing buses at the foot of Ocean Ave. Here, Fenn Horton and Helen Elston finish lunch in comfort on bus ride up the long hill.



FITTING END to a great trip, removing sand from shoes before going to next class. Jackie Smithson (with hole in sock), Cathy Cole, Linsay Broberg, Peter Alley, and Matt Ward.

GETTING CLOSER

Another student described her impressions of being led while her eyes were closed:

"It was really a way of getting closer. It got to the point where, if my partner wasn't there holding my hand, I felt sort of lost. I felt as if I was sharing something sort of special."

Students spoke of their other senses becoming more awake when they were left without the often relied upon sense of sight. To realize through awakened senses, moving cars, barking dogs, people and gentler things such as leaves, water, and sand was a new experience.

Said Mark Poole of his impressions, "You learned how much you actually depend on sight in your everyday life and how much you have to rely on other senses to make up for the loss of sight. It's something everyone should experience."

BREAD AND ARTICHOKES

As the pairs of students slowly began to assemble on Ocean Beach, loaves of bread, fruit, cookies, and artichoke hearts were brought out.

And then, scattered on the sand and warmed by the morning sun, 90 students and teachers Peter Lyon, Ray Gere, and Wally LeValley, shared their lunches and their thoughts.

After all had eaten their fill, the students divided into small groups to partake in what some persons call "games," and some "exercises," but what the students prefer to call "experiments."

FLOATING SENSATION

Speaking on one such experiment of trust in which one individual is lifted above the heads of the other group members, Chris Lundblad said, "I couldn't feel the hands. It was like a complete floating sensation. It was fantastic."

Other students described their sensation simply as, "Beautiful."

Another exercise some groups tried was to close their eyes and attempt to sense another person's personality by touching their finger tips. Another group tried a similar exercise in which they "spoke" through their feet, instead of their fingers.

Among the other experiments, looking directly into another person's eyes and mirroring his expression, helped remove some masks. The passing of an individual around a circle also built a feeling of trust.

Many of the experiments were nonverbal but one group attempted to communicate by constructing their own words, thus trying for a new level of expression.

SPONTANEITY

Perhaps as important as these group experiments were the spontaneous races down the beach, the leaps, the splashing in the water, and the smiles and the laughter. And perhaps that one long line of students that raced down the beach was one of the best symbols of the morning's activities and attitudes.

As the students slowly trudged up the sandy hill to their bus ride back to school, many of them felt about their morning of trust, communication and touch in a manner described by Mary Lee Beach: "We were on a different level with people than when we're in class. The communication was opened and everything was a lot deeper."

Media of art used in reading

A new approach to remedial reading is being istigated at Tularcitos school through the media of art.

Two teachers are responsible for the introduction of this program. Mrs. Regina Moritz, art teacher, and Mrs. Marlene Harris, first grade, have coordinated projects in art for creative preceptual training. They have evolved ways with color and design to assist students with problems in reading subject matter. They stated that remarkable results have been achieved thus far.

Mrs. Fike to head Heart Fund drive

Mrs. Ruth Fike has been named as head of the Heart Fund drive for Carmel Valley, it was announced this week by Ernest J. Singleton, chairman of the Central Mission Trails Heart Association.

The campaign will open February 10 in a search for contributions to the locally controlled association, which will finance research and educational programs designed to reduce the nation's number one killer, heart and circulatory diseases.

According to Mrs. Fike, the locally derived funds are administered by Tri-County residents serving on the association's Board of Directors, and it is an autonomous organization affiliated with the national association.

Research is being conducted at Stanford University Medical Center and by local area college and high school students, designed primarily to encourage promising young people to enter the scientific medical research field.

The funds contribute to fight against heart and circulatory diseases in a variety of ways according to the association. A screening program among the area's school children is given to identify young people with abnormal heart sounds. A diet counseling program is available to the general public and a number of public education programs such as films and provision of speakers is available.

The Explorers Club of San Francisco has announced the second program of their current Explorerama series of professionally produced, feature-length, color, travel and adventure films which they are currently presenting at Sunset Auditorium in Carmel.

"The People of Japan", a new film, will be narrated in person by its photographer Gene Wiancko at 8:15 p.m. Saturday, January 25th.

The 2-hour color film is full of human interest and it presents significant aspects of Japanese customs, ceremonies, artistry, religion and entertainment. The film is shot in a special new color process which features the vivid pastel shades that the Japanese are famous for.

Highlights include the Hollyhock Festival of Kyoto, fire rituals, Sumo wrestling, pearl divers and the Kabuki Theatre. The cities of Tokyo, Kobe, Hiroshima, Nagasaki, Yokohama, Kyoto, Nara and Ajiro are seen in the film.

Reserved seat tickets at $2.50 are now available at Central Box Office in Carmel, phone: 624-6739 and Abinate Music Store in Monterey, phone: 372-5893.

What about that yellow cloud?

A Letter to the Public from PG&E:

Robert H. Gerdes, Chairman of the Board, Pacific Gas and Electric Company

We of PG&E share your concern about the appearance of the yellowish cloud caused by the new units of our Moss Landing Power Plant.

I take this means to reassure you that PG&E is pledged to find the solution to this problem as soon as possible. We will make whatever expenditures are required to do so. We are proceeding in good faith and we ask your patience. We need the time to solve a riddle unprecedented in our experience. We have made substantial progress to date and are determined to finish the job.

What Causes the Cloud

The principal fuel used at the Moss Landing plant is natural gas—a clean fuel. The cloud does not come from anything in natural gas. When burned, natural gas turns into two end-products—water vapor and carbon dioxide. Both are harmless. Both are also invisible, except on cold days when the water vapor condenses and leaves the stacks like steam from a teakettle.

The cloud is caused by an air chemical reaction. Air is a mixture of gases, mainly nitrogen and oxygen. When any fuel is burned, increasingly so with higher temperatures, some of the nitrogen in the air combines with some of the oxygen to form nitric oxide (NO), an invisible gas. In the atmosphere, the NO picks up more oxygen and becomes nitrogen dioxide (NO_2). The latter, when formed into a layer by certain atmospheric conditions, appears as a yellowish cloud.

The Problem

Our investigations to date indicate that the problem with the two new units at Moss Landing is that because of unexpected combustion characteristics when natural gas is burned a higher than normal percentage of nitric oxide is formed from the air. This problem has never occurred at any other PG&E plant, nor with the five earlier units at Moss Landing.

What About Health Hazard

Expert consultants assure us that there is no indication of any hazard to your health or to animal and plant life. To check the experts' conclusions we have asked the Monterey-Santa Cruz County Unified Air Pollution Control District to undertake a thorough ground level testing program. We have offered support and cooperation for such a program. In any event, we are determined to get rid of the cloud.

What About Oil

Oil is used as a standby fuel in our steam-electric power plants. This is for the purpose of maintaining a continuing and adequate supply of fuel for electric generation when gas is diverted from our power plants to supply our gas customers during cold spells and other adverse conditions.

Burning oil at Moss Landing does not produce an abnormal percentage of nitric oxide. It does produce some sulphur dioxide and ash, but the plant was designed to avoid air pollution problems from these sources by adequate dispersion, and our studies to date show that it does.

If any future tests made by us or the Air Pollution Control District should show that the oil we burn does cause an air pollution problem, we will make such changes as are necessary to remedy the situation.

What Is Being Done

We are giving priority attention to solving the problem. To date we have succeeded in reducing the nitric oxide about one-third by changing the air mix during the combustion process. We are working on other approaches such as increasing flue gas recirculation, adjusting air flow through the burners and injecting water or steam into the burners. Our engineers are studying design changes and every other possibility for further reductions. We have retained as consultants foremost experts in the fields of boiler technology, environmental control and meteorology. Among them are Stanford Research Institute and the Institute of Gas Technology, Chicago. Together we have a team of nationally recognized experts working at the task. Tests and studies so far are encouraging.

Our Concern and Commitment

We are deeply concerned about this problem. We share your pride in the beauties of our state and its environmental advantages. Your best interests are ours too. Please be assured of our determination to find the solution to this problem as promptly as possible.

Sincerely yours,

Robert H. Gerdes

CLAMBAKE HISTORY

The first Crosby Clambake was actually a "duck hunt."

At least that is what many of the old-timers remember it as when they look back to 1937 and the first Bing Crosby Pro-Am played at Rancho Santa Fe.

Today it is a national event with the top players in golf competing for $150,000 in prize money and another 136 amateurs along for the fun.

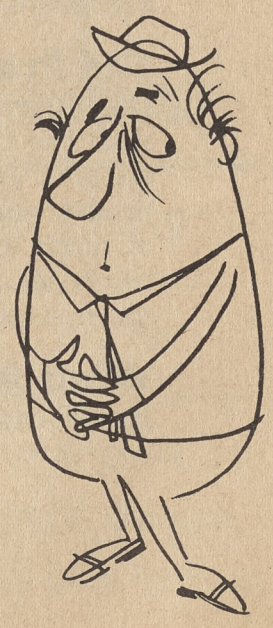
Back in 1937 the pros played for a grand total of $3,000, but that kind of money is in the past and today first-place prize in the Crosby will bring the lucky winner the tidy sum of $25,000.

After six tournaments in Southern California, Bing Crosby postponed his traditional get-together of golfing buddies and it wasn't until the post-World War II year of 1947 that it was renewed again.

That year the tournament shifted to Pebble Beach and its arrival on the Monterey Peninsula marked a new era in pro-amateur golf.

The purse went to $10,000 and the blazing of a money trail was begun.

It is estimated that this year donations to charities in the long history of the tournament will reach $2 million.



"Did I hear you say it was going to rain some more?"

Senator Petris guest speaker at dinner

Officers and new board members will be installed at the annual dinner of the Monterey County Mental Health Association, Tuesday, January 28, at the Carmel Valley Golf and Country Club.

Guest speaker of the evening will be Senator Nicholas Petris, who was instrumental in putting through the Lanterman-Petris-Short Art.

This act, which will go into effect in July of this year will enable the county Board of Supervisors to exercize local control over the care of emotionally confused people. It gives authority to the board to contract with local facilities for the hospitalization of patients rather than sending people of this community to other parts of the state.

Additionally, the bill provides that the state will participate financially to the extent of 90 percent giving a reduction in local cost.

Senator Petris is a graduate of both the University of California at Berkeley and Stanford Law School, and a member of the Revenue and Taxation Committee.

Those wishing to attend may make reservations by phoning 659-2046 or 659-2767.

Ballet studio

A use permit for a ballet studio to be built for Patricia Wester on the Granoff lot on Delfino Place will be considered at the meeting of the Upper Valley advisory board when it meets January 24 at 8:30 at the Community Center.

A design approval has been made for the sign at Bernadelli Square which will be reduced six inches to conform to the legal limits, according to Doyt Early, president of the board.

A use permit for Lloyd Swanson to build a guest house on La Rancheria property will be considered at the meeting.

EDITORIAL

A memo to our readers

Those of us in the newspaper business – and actually we represent a very small part of the population – agree pretty much on one thing: there are few such occupations which provide much more of a challenge.

For one thing, newspapers offer a variety of jobs requiring a variety of skills and aptitudes.

Gathering and writing news is just one of them, although many think that this is really all there's to it.

It may be the most glamorous, but believe me there are also a lot of other very important jobs around any newspaper.

To name some of them:

People who design and sell advertising; craftsmen who perform many technical operations in printing the paper; artisans who convert news stories and ads to type so that they can be printed, and who prepare the pages themselves for the printer (in our case, the photo-lithographer); patient receptionists who have a multitude of chores involving almost every aspect of the business; and the clerical tasks are as complex as any other business; last but not least, the circulator, who must see that the printed paper is sped swiftly to countless readers.

Somehow, these greatly varied operations all mesh, and after being assembled from a great variety of sources, the news, the pictures, the headlines, and the advertising, are organized neatly and quickly, printed expertly and there is your newspaper, crisp, fresh and personally your own.

Weekly papers such as the Outlook are, oddly enough, just as pressed for time in meeting their weekly deadlines as are the large dailies, whether it be the Herald or the Chronicle.

The larger papers have much larger staffs, and jobs are more limited in scope; those of us on weeklies just naturally have to be more versatile, and we also tell ourselves that we are much closer to the paper and maybe even have more fun.

Maybe 'fun' isn't the right word; maybe the word is 'challenge', because it takes a blithe spirit who can find enjoyment in hard work and meeting difficult problems.

When a newspaper changes hands, such as this one did a few weeks ago, very little else changes, especially the basic tradition and the job the paper has to do. Bill and Billie Norton have been especially cooperative, as well as patient, during this transition. The few changes in personnel were unavoidable, and could not have possibly been made without the advice and help of the Nortons.

Our news editor, Rosemary Clifford, has had a great deal of professional experience and knows the Valley well. And everyone knows George T.C. Smith who will be available to take all of our pictures. Bobbie Glendenning is a great help to us in the advertising department, and she also is a real pro. Roberta Little gives us experienced help in the production department, and like all the members of our staff, old and new, is eager, dependable and responsible.

All of us here at the Outlook want to continue giving you the fine and highly-respected newspaper which the Nortons have built up during the past four years, and if possible, continue to build and improve it in the tradition which they have established.

And since this is your newspaper too, we will always welcome your comments.

PERSPECTIVE

TO THE EDITOR

Gentlemen:

An example as to what is happening to dogs in the Mojave Desert near the Death Valley entrance where temperatures can soar to 130 in the summer.

Is there someway this action can be stopped that is being carried out by a Park Attendant, a County Representative?

My interest in this matter, is to stop this sort of action on any future dogs or animals.

Thank you for your co-operation.

Very truly yours,
Ralph R. Payton
P.O. Box126

ENCLOSURE: Document relating to this incident is enclosed. Witnesses' names with-held.

To Whom It May Concern:

SUBJECT: Inhumane Cruelty to Animals.

On January 1, 1969, my dog, a German Shorthair Pointer, ventured into the INYO COUNTY PARK at Tecopa, California.

This dog was maintained on property existing outside of the INYO COUNTY PARK.

A search was conducted for the animal and upon inquiry at the INYO COUNTY PARK OFFICE, the Park Attendant (I was told the name is Mr. Lindbloom) stated he had taken the subject animal out into the desert and " dumped-him" at a distance of five-miles near a Highway No. 127 in a Northerly direction; thus, totally endangering the life-and-safety of this animal!

When I asked the Park Attendant why he did this, he stated, "I am tired of dogs around here!"

My search by car on Highway No. 127 was without results in locating the animal. Inquiries within the town of Shoshone were without results.

Later, I was advised by an individual who personally contacted me that he knew where the animal was. I met a second individual who was a witness to this act on the part of the INYO COUNTY PARK Attendant. I identified the animal to the second individual and he took me to where he had the animal contained.

The second individual advised me, he was talking with the Park Attendant when he was "loading him into a vehicle" and asked what he was going to do with the animal. The Park Attendant advised the second individual that he was going to "dump" him out in the desert!

The second individual told me, he immediately followed the Park Attendant without being observed and traveled on Highway No. 127 into the town of Shoshone without finding the animal. On his return from Shoshone he stated he spotted the animal near the highway. He stated he had difficulty in catching the animal as he was bewildered and frightened.

IN CONCLUSION: It can be stated that this was a dire act and without justification on the part of a County Representative to carry out personal-hatred towards animals.

Descriptive Information Regarding This Subject Animal:

Brown dog collar carried tags as noted; Dog License Tag: Monterey County No. 6338.

Veterinary Tag, stated: Dr. Petkus, Carmel Valley Veterinary Hospital, Phone 408-659-2162, number of tag: No. 1082.

Monterey County Dog License Information: Dog Licenses in this County are on a current fiscal year; May 1968 through April 30, 1969.

Character of this animal named "Sam": This dog, Sam, in his locality, has appeared on the Local Television News, has been in an article in the Local Newspaper and has been published in Color Photographs in National Magazines.

He is described as very friendly, loves children and likes to be with people.

As with any animal, he does not understand cruelty.

The Rhyming Philosopher

ALLEVIATION

We're up to our ears in confusion and tears,
surrounded by wreckage and trouble:
Alas! Christmas toys sent to small girls and boys are smashed to extinction and rubble.

There's dolls up in traction and trucks out of action and railroads defunct by collisions;
There's cruisers with bruises and bikes with abuses and footballs with fatal incisions.

So Gramps and his hammer responds to the clamor with rivets and wire and some stickum;
Repairs are effected as most kids expected,
for Grandpa's the chap who can fixum.

But who recognizes that terrible crises
we're heir to with no chance to vote on:
Those sox and cravats and those hideous hats which sisters and aunts seem to dote on.

They ought to know better than give us a sweater endowed like a nightmare. Excuse them!
But each January it seems necessary to wear them, then sneakily lose them!

A question and answer period will be held

C.V. Kiwanis

The beginnings of golf back in St. Andrews, Scotland, with a three-hole course to the modern golf boom were traced for Carmel Valley Kiwanians last Tuesday noon by Nick Lombardo, pro-manager of Del Monte Golf Club.

Lombardo is developing two new 18-hole courses at the mouth of Carmel Valley, and announced he hoped play would begin there by Nov. 1. He pointed out that great care is being taken so that no tree or shrub will be un-necessarily removed.

"Construction of golf courses have kept many areas green, which otherwise might have gone under the bulldozer and covered with concrete," Lombardo said.

He predicted that golf players would reach 25,000,000 in the next 10 years. Sale of golf equipment exceeds the sale of all other sports' equipment combined, he added.

Since 1958, Lombardo revealed, private courses have increased greatly while the number of private clubs have diminished.

The Del Monte Golf Course, which was started in 1897, and is the oldest in the West and one of the oldest in the country. The golf industry, he said, was in the doldrums for a number of years and there were fewer courses in this country in 1950 than in 1931.

Chuck Strathmeyer was presented with one-year perfect-attendance pin.

Two new faces in White Oaks Theatre

The month of January brought more than just a change of date to the company of Carmel Valley's White Oaks Theatre.

Two vacancies in the company were created by the departure of two female members, Sieglinde Gierlach, now studying acting in New York, and Malia Elliott, leaving to accept the leading role of Kate in the University of Hawaii production of Taming of the Shrew.

The two spots were filled by Carolyn Evans, well known to peninsula audiences for her appearances at both the Studio and Circle theatres, and by the return to the company of Linda Boblitt Prejean, the recent bride of White Oaks actor John Prejean.

Following a two-week Christmas vacation, the theatre company re-assembled to rehearse new productions for the second half of their nine month touring season.

Added to the repertoire will be Sganarelle, a fast-paced Moliere one-act play, and Box of Seven Faces, an original children's play written by Gale Peterson, artistic director of White Oaks Theatre.

Both shows will open "on the road", as the company leaves the valley January 15th to continue the state-wide tour. Between that time and May of this year, they will visit such cities as Sacramento, Orangevale, Santa Maria, Lakeport and South Pasadena, and will by the conclusion of the spring tour have appeared before a total audience of 100,000 children and adults.

January also marks the opening of the White Oaks Theatre 1969 Fund Drive. Tax-deductible contributions to assist the theatre in their aim to bring live productions to audiences not only in Monterey County, but throughout the state may be mailed to the theatre.

Chamber Music Society concert series opens

The Chamber Music Society of the Monterey Peninsula will present the first concert of the 1968-69 series at the Carmel Museum of Art on Friday, January 24, at 8:30 p.m.

Performing will be the distinguished Crown Chamber players with Clarinetist Rosario Mazzeo, cellist William van den Burg and pianist William Corbett Jones.

Mazzeo was for many years first chair clarinetist with the Boston Symphony Orchestra and was chairman of the woodwind department of the New England Conservatory for 25 years.

Van den Burg, a native of The Hague, was graduated with highest honors from the Royal Conservatorium. He has been solo cellist with the Philadelphia Orchestra, the San Francisco Symphony and has performed with the Los Angeles Chamber Orchestra.

Jones, a member of the faculty of the University of California at Santa Cruz, was warmly acclaimed when he performed at the Salzburg Festival.

The concert is with admission to members only, and President Angie Machado would appreciate it if members not able to attend this outstanding concert would loan their membership cards to friends since the membership quota has been reached.

Under the Yum Yum Tree

Studio Theatre will present comedy next

Next on view at the Studio Theatre-Restaurant in Carmel is the frothy comedy "Under the Yum Yum Tree," opening January 31.

Seldom has the stage offered a more engaging combination of rascal and charmer than Hogan, landlord of the Telegraph Hill apartment where the action takes place, whose forte is winning the romantic cooperation of a succession of female tennants.

Hogan, played on Broadway by Gig Young and in the movie by Jack Lemmon, anticipates a new conquest when divorcee Irene Wilson vacates the premises in favor of her niece Robin, a nubile Berkeley student. Even when he learns that Robin proposes sharing the flat with a young lawyer, Dave Manning, as an experiment to test their compatibility on a strictly platonic basis before marriage, Hogan is not deterred.

Almost until the final curtain, author Lawrence Romance leaves the audience uncertain whether the conniving Hogan has scored again, meanwhile providing an abundance of funny and frequently hilarious dialogue, until in the end Robin is cured of playing with fire and Hogan.....well, Hogan is still Hogan.

Directed by Dave Kirk, "Under The Yum Yum Tree" will run Friday, Saturday and Sunday nights at the Studio through March 15. Reservations for dinner and show or show alone may be made at 624-1661 or 624-2321.

Forest Theatre's 'New Wave'

BY DAVID J. WATKINS

First nights are hung with a variety of emotions: excitement at what the opening curtains will show; expectancy and curiosity and often, be it admitted, a feeling of blase cynicism on the part of the critic.

With a new company and a new director, there is all this and more: will they have something fresh and original to offer or will we be condemned to the same old hackneyed treatment that had kept audiences streaming away from the slippery stage of American theatre?

The program now being presented at the Forest Theatre by the 'Young Artists Theatre' comprises a slide show entitled 'Let Us Begin' and Samuel Beckett's 'Waiting for Godot'. It is in its entirety, a most perfectly envisioned and executed piece of entertainment.

'Let Us Begin' is a visual collage to the words of President Kennedy, photographed by Dave Allen. It is a photographic miniature of great clarity, an example of intense drama conveyed by the camera. Having sat through more than my share of slide shows, 'home' movies shown in the home or transplanted before their time to the theatre, I looked forward to yet another one with about as much enthusiasm as a camera bug to a rainy day.

Allen's efforts come, therefore, as a shock. In their technical competence, each frame is in itself, a picture, able to stand by itself. His use of color, control of lighting, and differential focus is superb.

Off to a deliberately slow start, both chronometrically and photographically, the tempo gradually increases, climaxing with a chilling execution scene with Donovan's recording of 'Universal Soldier' as accompaniment.

The speeches of JFK, the songs of Simon and Garfunkel, Donovan and the Beatles combine to present a positive affirmation in the belief that life will triumph.

From 'Let Us Begin' to 'let us go on' – with more of Dave Allen's slides to introduce the characters of 'Waiting for Godot', a smooth transition was accomplished from camera to stage. A neat and original piece of direction.

One enters Beckett's play as one enters the universe: for a fleeting moment of time, whose beginning is unknown and whose end appears long after. One spends the interim waiting... filling the minutes...diverting the hours. With but a bench, a tree and a pair of boots, Jeffrey Jennings as Estragon and Dean Funk as Vladimir wrestle with the problem of passing time, and of time passing. They are on stage for a formidable 2-1/4 hours.

With no plot, no sequence and almost no action, they are able by the sheer force of their dramatic personalities, to hold the appreciative attention of the audience throughout.

These two nerve-shattered clowns engage in exchanges that could well take place between husband -and wife, frustrated, ennui-ridden, and on the verge of howling neuroses. Yet Beckett simplifies the essence of his message by using two old down-and-outs instead of the more prosaic up-tight couple.

And Jean Rousseau as Pozzo, the elastic time man with his bags of sand, Wendy Grissim as his slave, giving an amazing display of electric verbalistics, and Eric Jennings as a 'Boy' in fear and trembling before the two tramps, were not merely 'supporting roles' but characters in their own right and of matching quality.

Tragedy is appreciable only in the smallest quantities, and director Ron Guillemette has wisely avoided the pitfall of allowing his characters to disappear into a fog of pathos. His emphasis on comedy keeps the play immensely enjoyable, never static, and renders the tragic aspects all the more poignant.

Guillemette admits to seeking the younger audiences – indeed I recommend this production to all MPC and High School students – but his production should be a vigorous aperitif to the jaded appetites of habitual theatre goers and a bouquet to Carmel's week-end visitors and vacation spenders.

If, at this moment, there are other Guillemettes, working with other Jennings, Funk, and company, then we are in for a revolution of the dramatic arts, an end to the banality of the American stage and a reincarnation of the theatre as a vital showcase of life in microcosm.

Six more showings are scheduled at the Forest Theatre's 'Theatre in the Ground': at 8:30 on Friday, Saturday, and Sunday – 24th, 25th, 26th, and 31st of January and the 1st and 2nd of February.

Carmel High keeps league slate clean

Carmel's Varsity Basketball Team is the only undefeated team on the Monterey Peninsula.

Saturday evening, the Padres piled up impressive leads of 15-2 and 29-9 in the first half, and then, after star center Bruce Winkler fouled out, staved off a late Holy Cross charge to edge the Panthers, 70-66, at Cabrillo College.

This gives Jason Harbert's Charges, now with a 6-0 MTAL record, a comfortable two game lead in the race for the championship.

The next Padre live broadcast is Friday evening at 8:15 over KRSA-FM, 100.7 MC, with Harold Gann courtside in Hollister.

Winkler fouled out with 1:15 to go in the third quarter, at which time Carmel's big lead had been whittled to nine. Then in the closing moments the Panthers pulled to within three, but two clutch free throws by Malcombe Hall with 40 seconds remaining iced the victory for the Padres.

Harbert and crew were deeply concerned about Holy Cross before the start of the game, as the Panthers had downed King City the night before by ten points in Santa Cruz, one point more than Carmel's margin over the Mustangs the prior Saturday on the Padre Hardwood.

But Carmel's outside shooting – highlighted by Chris Laiolo with 14 and Steve Taylor with 11 – kept the middle open for the drives of Winkler and his substitute, Pete Shaw.

Winkler was high point man again with 23, despite his fouling out late in the third stanza, Laiolo (displaying a remarkable shooting performance of six field goals of eight attempts) registered 14, and Mark Spindler and Taylor each tallied 11.

The night before, Carmel romped to an easy 71-52 win over visiting Gonzales. Winkler garnered 26, Laiolo and Taylor each had 11, and eight apiece for Spindler and Ross Smith, who went scoreless against Holy Cross.

Carmel's Junior Varsity came from behind in the third quarter and held on in the stretch to win over Holy Cross in a thriller, 53-51, after losing to Gonzales the night before, 53-48. Jeff Canepa both nights collected 25 points, and Jim Conlan and Scott Morris each had 22, collectively.

The hapless Carmel Frosh bowed both nights.

Czech pastor to speak at Chapel dinner

Jan Kucera, pastor of the Evangelical Brethren Church of Prague for many years, will be the special speaker for the evening dinner meeting of the Carmel Valley Community Chapel. To be held Sunday evening, January 26, at 6 p.m.

A delicious dinner will be served to adult members and friends of the Chapel by Mrs. Myler and Mrs. Waylett, who are planning the dinner. No charge will be made.

Dr. S.V. Trevino, chairman of the Board of Trustees, will lead the annual meeting at which short reports and election of new board members will be held.

Miss Almira Davis, treasurer, will report on budget accomplishments for the past year and the excellent response to the Mission appeal during the holidays.

Pastor Kucera, who is making his fourth trip to the U.S., will give a dynamic message of his experiences during the recent Russian drive for domination of his country and his search for personal and religious freedom. Reservations for the dinner can be made by calling Mrs. W. Mauzey, 659-2450 or Mrs. T.B. McKiernon, 659-2833, before Saturday.

OUTLOOK ON CARMEL

Ronald Guillemette directs "Waiting for Godot"

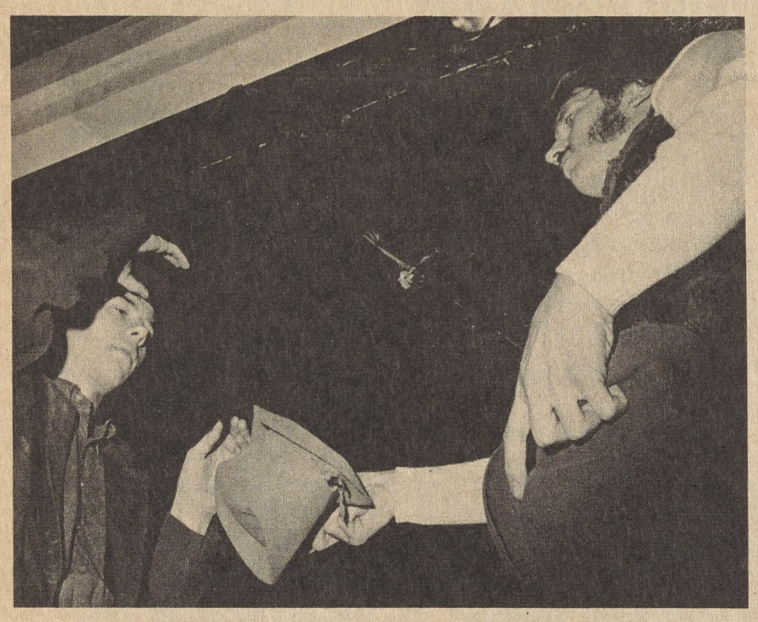
JEFFREY JENNINGS AS ESTRAGON (far left) prepares to pass a hat to Dean Funk as Vladimir in the Young Artists' Theatre production of Samuel Beckett's "Waiting for Godot."



Carmel Valleyite Ronald S. Guillemette, directs "Waiting for Godot", a young Artists' Theatre presentation that will be given for two more weekends at the Forest Theatre's "Theatre in the Ground" in Carmel beginning at 8:30 Friday through Sunday.

In conjunction with the two-act tragicomedy by Samuel Beckett, a slide show entitled "Let Us Begin" will be presented.

"The subject of 'Waiting for Godot' is not Godot but waiting", Director Guillemette says. "But it is not about waiting. The play itself is waiting."

"Let Us Begin" is a visual collage to the words of President Kennedy. It was photographed and directed by Peninsula photographer Dave Allen.

"In his inaugural address eight years ago, President Kennedy clearly outlined the problems and the challenges we face today as President Nixon takes office," says Allen. "President Kennedy also said 'let us begin'."

Those featured in the two act play are Jeffrey Jennings as Estragon, Dean Funk as Vladimir, Jean Rousseau as Pozzo, Wendy Grissim as Lucky and Eric Jennings as a Boy.

Oklahoma Comes West

The orchestra will also be included in the performance with Henry Avila directing, and Miss Diana Hardy directing the acting.

Major part tryouts were held before Christmas vacation and the double casting includes: (Those pictured above) Back row: Scott Morris, Jud; Denise Cetin, Aunt Eller; Chris Robison, Jud; Chris Hansen, Curley; Susan Rudgiz, Laurie; Rick Humm, Will Parker; and Marjorie Ingram, Ado Annie. UNDER THE OAKS & AMONG THE CACTI

By Mildred Hattan——659–2468

VISITOR FROM OHIO

Mrs. Harry Wolfe, now of Celina, Ohio, received a warm reception from neighbors and the many friends made when she was a Valley-ite residing on Hokman Road.

Mrs. Wolfe, who arrived before Thanksgiving, is staying on Fiesta Road with her daughter and son-in-law, Evelyn and John Holmes. She has been entertained several times by Adele and John Hughes at their home on Marquard Road including a birthday luncheon celebration last week.

BROWNIES HONORED

If you happen to see a Brownie (junior Girl Scout variety) in uniform in the Village in the near future, ask her if you may see her World Association pin.

An honor reserved for Brownies exclusively all over the Free World, our Valley girls received theirs last Tuesday when Troop #2121, from River School led by Mrs. Barbara Narevez, arrived to assist with the ceremony.

The active troop led by Mrs. Gail Blake and Mrs. Mary Kaye King are still reminiscing about the fun Christmas party held jointly with the Junior Troop led by Mrs. Leslie Martin with the breaking of a bell-shaped pinata as the highpoint of their afternoon.

On Saturday, the Valley girls invited the Troop from River School to accompany them to the Jamesburg cutoff on the Cachagua from where the girls embarked with "nosebag" lunches on a hike into Jamesburg. The members of the 4-car convoy stopped at the Comstat site, where (from a distance) Mrs. Blake briefed the 35 girls on the purpose of the impressive installation.

GUESTS FROM PHOENIX

Mr. and Mrs. Harold Waymire and son, Scott, of Esquiline Road had as their holiday houseguests, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Waymire, Sr., of Phoenix, Ariz. The Valleyites took their guests to Watsonville to view the progress on the airplane which Harold is restoring.

UNIQUE PROTESTER

Creating more than a little flurry of interest in the line of march protesting the smog emitting from the Moss Landing plant was a Valleyite, "Big Dumb Charlie Brown."

The celebrated St. Bernard whose ancestors are attributed with saving lives in the Alps, was wearing a sign which read, "Even I can't rescue you from smog" and carrying a keg filled with "clean air" under his chin. "DCB" was accompanied by Bill Hancpol, one of his West Carmel Valley Road owners.

BRODRICK PROMOTED

Friends of a Valle Vista resident, William Brodrick, are congratulating him on his promotion to manager of Production Control at the Schilling Plant in Salinas.

Associated with McCormick and Co. for seven years, the Valleyite, who began as assistant credit manager, vacated the position of supervisor of the Spice and Foil Filing Department, which has been filled by Nicholas P. Scurich.

YOUTH GROUP ORGANIZES

A Pizza Party at the Pizza House in the Village was one of the first activities of the new year to be enjoyed by the Junior High Youth Group of the Carmel Valley Community Chapel.

They were accompanied by their advisers, Mr. and Mrs. Lucky Lawson.

The organization has elected officers for the coming year. Liz Korver is the new president, Terry Hendrix, vice president, Kim Baker, secretary, and Sandy Harbert, treasurer.

CHRIS IS NINE

Nine little cowboy candles on a birthday cake signified the number of birthdays that were being celebrated by Christopher Anderson who had a party last Friday at the Country Club Drive home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Johnny Anderson.

Enjoying an afternoon of games were Jody Moore, Roy Kaminske, Kelly Blatnik, Jeff Glascoe, Steven Draper, David Lyon, Carl Bresk, J.F. Blatnik, Tim Sherman, and Chris's brother, Rodney.

SPECIAL "TREAT" FOR LIONETTES

How fortunate for the Carmel Valley Lionettes that when their regularly scheduled speaker failed to appear they were able to call upon Madame FiFi La Rue, who, by coincidence, happened to be making a brief stay at the Los Laureles Lodge.

The noted authority on ... many things...graciously stepped in at the last moment with invaluable tips on what to pack for the club's annual convention trek to Hobergs. Exquisitely gowned in a feminine blue creation typical of the wardrobe selections which have made Madame a formidable world contender for the best dressed list, Madame presented an impeccable example of grooming, makeup, and demonstrated the versatility of a wig by donning over her own chic coif one of flaming red.

Only those Lionettes with suspicious natures of long standing, can be overheard wondering, that despite the poise, charm, and husky voice with its elusive accent, there remained something about this devastating creature hauntingly familiar.....where WAS Cmdr. (ret.) William Stowers on the night of January 15th?

HAPPY NEWS

David Lynn Stainbrook II arrived December 29th, is the happy news at 56 Lupine Lane. In addition to his parents, Marilyn and David, the 8 lb., 4 oz. 1968 arrival was welcomed by his sisters, Tammy, 8, and Stacy, 2. He is the grandson of Marie and Herman Tedrow of Paso Hondo.

LIONETTES MAKE DONATIONS

The Carmel Valley Lionettes held their January dinner meeting Wednesday at the Los Laureles Lodge. Mrs. Donald Draper, hostess for the evening, had centered the head table with a green topiary tree and gold candles. Nut cups and small baskets of orange flowers were added to the attractive table decor.

The birthdays of Mrs. John Koon and Mrs. William Stowers were celebrated. The door prize was won by Mrs. Koon.

The main business portion of the meeting was devoted to the decision to donate $100.00 to the Cobalt Treatment Center at the Community Hospital and $40.00 to the Community Center Youth Group.

Del Monte Properties buys big silica firm

Del Monte Properties Company has acquired Wedron Silica Company, Chicago for approximately $10 million in a move that makes the Pebble Beach company the nation's third largest producer of industrial and commercial sand.

Under terms of an agreement concluded by A.G. Michaud, Del Monte Properties president, and Alfred Gawthrop, Wedron chief executive, Wedron stockholders receive 237,600 shares of Del Monte Properties common and 216,000 shares of a new DMP Co convertible preferred having a $25 par value with a four and a half per cent dividend.

This is a portion of the additional 1,240,000 common and 500,000 preferred shares which were authorized last year by Del Monte shareholders. The agreement - retroactive to December 31,1968 - gives Wedron shareowners about a one-quarter interest in Del Monte Properties Company.

Wedron plants in Illinois, Texas and Tennessee coupled with Del Monte sand operations at Pacific Grove; Emmett, Idaho; and through an affiliate in Valley, Wash., gives the company a dominent position in several regional markets.

In addition to its sand mining activites, Del Monte Properties owns and operates the world famous Del Monte Lodge, Pebble Beach and Spyglass Hill golf links and has large real estate holdings in the Monterey area.

The Wedron acquisition is the latest in a series of aggressive moves by the 50 year old development company.

In 1964, under a plan designed to preserve its 8500 acres of prime real estate, Del Monte Properties inaugurated a long-term land leasing policy as opposed to out right sales. As a result, the Del Monte regional shopping center, the Del Monte Hyatt House and a number of exclusive cluster home projects have been built with these terms.

During the same period DMPCo purchased the 1500 Rancho Aguajito property, above its Pebble Beach reserve, and overlooking Monterey Bay and Carmel Valley. An option to enter into a joint venture with Utah Construction and Mining Company for development of the 5200 acre Work Ranch in Monterey was also concluded.

Along the 17-Mile drive, the renowned Lodge has been significantly remodeled, a new restaurante francais opened and several cottage units built adjacent to the lodge.

Within the forest several new residential areas are nearing completion; notably the ultra-expensive Pebble Beach Townhouses, and the Spyglass 13th and Spyglass South projects near that celebrated course.

Del Monte's growing interest in the sand mining industry will not change its traditional commitments to sound land planing and intelligent conservation of natural resources, as has been proved with the construction of the Spyglass 18, which was created on reclaimed mining sites.

The acquisition, negotiated by the midwestern banking firm of William Blair and Company leaves Chicago as Wedron headquarters. However, management and direction of DMPCo divisions including those of real estate, brokerage and hotel-resort facilities remain at Pebble Beach.

Filing deadline near

Penalty and interest will be charged if the report is filed after the deadline, Applegate said.

Employers who need help in preparing their returns and wage reports may contact Applegate at 474 Webster Street, Monterey, or telephone 373-0143.

All-year CUSD term studied as possibility

There is a state wide tendency to an all school year according to Schools Superintendent Harris A. Taylor.

This was brought out in a meeting of the board of Education when it met Tuesday with a citizens committee appointed to study the possibility of introducing an all-year program into the Carmel Unified School District.

Supt. Taylor stated that he favored the all-year school year. "The educational trend is toward individualized instruction, but we are not there yet", he said. He stated that the time may come when an individual program is prepared for each youngster, and he can take 60 days off where he wants it for his yearly vacation.

It is estimated that the cost of an all-year school program would add about $140,000 annually to the budget to put the Carmel schools on an all-year basis.

The citizens committee was divided in their views and had no definite answer as to whether or not further study should be given the matter, and if so how that study should be made.

RECOMMENDATIONS

However, the report made three recommendations; consider hiring a system analyst; undertake a program to acquaint the community with the all year school program and learn the reaction of the citizens; and if the board decides to go all year, adopt the trimester system as the most feasible for Carmel.

Parents' representatives at the meeting were chairman John E. Taylor, Mrs. Walter Spear and Mrs. Laszlo Toldi. Teachers' representatives included Mrs. Phyllis Davies and Mrs. Betty Roth. Walter Mc Cloud represented the business community. Dan Yurkovich was absent attending a special seminar.

Chairman Taylor felt that the all-year school was an alternate to crowded facilities and to possible additional construction. The main thrust of the citizens reports says that it is possible, he stated, but it does not say that we think the board should go to an all-year school. "It says that we think the board should not reject the possibility immediately," he said.

"Eventually this district will have to go to an all-year school," Taylor stated. "The question is, will we do it because we planned it that way, or because we were forced into it through the back door."

MPC "black study" courses approved

Nine "black studies" courses were approved by the Monterey Peninsula College board of trustees it was announced by President George J. Faul.

The two instructors hired to teach these courses at the meeting of the board are James C. Taylor and Mrs. Bertha Hutchins.

The trustees turned down an Associated Students petition to change the college policy on naming buildings after persons but adopted a resolution to allow student groups to suggest "other memorials or monuments to honor people or importance to them"

INCOME TAX SERVICE
SAVE TIME — SAVE MONEY

Dear friend:

This is just a note to remind you that income tax season is here again and that the sooner you get your tax problems out of the way the sooner you will be freed from that nagging feeling of uneasiness that usually exists until the tax return is prepared.

There are other good reasons why you should come in early this year, such as:

1. Little or no waiting during the early weeks of the season.
2. Your tax obligation is determined early so that you can make specific arrangements to meet the payment (or to spend the tax refund).
3. You have ample time to obtain any needed documentary support for tax benefits you are claiming.
4. Early preparation is easier preparation. Both you and your tax consultant are relatively free of pressure regarding the tax deadline.

I $5 UP I I $5 UP I

So, come in early; put your tax burdens on our desk; relax and sip a cup of coffee while you watch Accuratax solve your tax problems; then, with your tax worries out of the way, get out there in the world and enjoy life!

See you soon -- 1242 Fremont at Harcourt, Seaside

Sincerely,
Accuratax

Story behind the perfection of the golf courses for the 'Crosby'

There's a new breed of golfer at Pebble Beach, and he's not the high earning young professional watched and envied by thousands who will attend the 28th annual Crosby Clambake.

In fact the average gallery goer won't even notice his name in the program.

But the pros will. For he's the man behind the greens who has to know that rye isn't necessarily something to drink and poa annua's not a poisonous snake in the grass.

His name - Roger Larson, possessor of one of the lesser titles in this golden age of golf, course manager.

As the man responsible for keeping Pebble Beach and Spyglass Hill in top tournament shape year-round, Larson reaps little of the glory and excitement associated with the $150,000 Crosby. However, he does come in for a share of the miseries from anyone who blows a putt or muffs a sand shot.

But bogie or birdie, it's all in a week's labor for Larson, 34, and the two work crews of eight men each at Pebble and Spyglass, who will put in close to 1,000 hours during the Crosby.

Fortunately, preparation for Bing's bash begins months ahead of the tournament, and Larson, as manager of the golf course division for Del Monte Properties, is responsible.

In late summer each year, the turf is seeded, fertilized and sprayed so it will be ready for the slow-growing time of the winter Crosby. This process also prepares the courses for other important tournaments during the year such as the California State Amateur, the Morse Cup Matches and the Women's State Amateur.

All this requires a specialized talent, and Larson, with a degree in horticulture from Iowa State University, has that talent -- backed up with a thorough knowledge of insecticides, soil amendments, plant physiology, fertilizers, chemicals, construction of greens and tees.

Under his supervision are two of the top foremen in the business -- Frank Silva at Pebble Beach and Elmer Wellner at Spyglass Hill.

Their crews consist of an assistant foreman, three section men and three utility men. Each section man is responsible for the upkeep of six holes per course, including the cutting of greens and tees and raking of traps.

The utility men take care of the countless assignments necessary to the upkeep of a golf course -- from spraying and fertilizing of greens to the changing of the cup locations for a national tournament.

Prior to the first day of the Crosby, Larson will accompany officials of the Professional Golfers' Association on a tour of the courses and during the tournament he will be in constant contact with them in case any changes are required in pin placement or tee markers.

During the first three days of the tournament the cups are left in the same general area from day to day so each hole is played the same for all the contestants.

Sand traps are raked either after play is over or before it begins each day. During the action, crews range the courses keeping traps in perfect condition.

Final touches to the preparation of the courses include roping areas for crowd control and watching for the minor things that could disrupt tournament play.

For instance pine needles can present a big problem if they blanket a green.

In this case Larson's mechanized crews come to the rescue with vacuum cleaners not unlike the home variety and portable blowers to clear the putting path for the players.

The old days of "gardening" a golf course are over.

Re-election is sought

Ralph B. Atkinson has announced his candidacy for re-election to the Board of Trustees of Monterey Peninsula College where he has served as chairman since last July.

Mr. Atkinson, a licensed chemical engineer, has served on the board of the Coast Property owners Association, the Advisory Committee to the Planning Commission, and the Management Council of the Monterey Peninsula.

Fire, Water damage Warmington home

The R.C. Warmington home on East Garzas road was damaged by fire and water last week when fire started in the flue of a Franklin stove in the living room.

The blaze had been extinguished with a garden hose when the Carmel Valley Fire Department arrived on the scene. Water damage to floor tiles was estimated at about $50.

Democrats to meet

Student unrest in colleges today will be discussed by a panel at the meeting of the Carmel Women's Democratic Club at their next regular meeting January 29, at the Dutch Motor Lodge at noon in Monterey.

Mr. Sherman Smith, member of the Board of Trustees at Monterey Peninsula College will be the moderator.
